MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Another year has ended and a new year for Washington County Genealogical Society is underway.

As we begin a new year, we want to thank all those members who have worked so hard to make the year of 1993 a successful year.

We want to strive to make 1994 an even better year, therefore, we challenge each one to do all that is possible to complete this mission.

Our newsletters and journals are our way of keeping our out-of-area members informed on what is happening within our society.

In closing, please remember that WCGS is your society. We would like to know if you approve of what your board and officers are doing. If you do not approve, please let us know also. What is important is that you let us hear from you.

IN THIS ISSUE

There's the familiar old saw about "never an ill wind...." Vandals shocked and angered residents of Plymouth and Washington County a few Halloween's ago by wreaking extensive damage to many old gravesites. Although many folks agreed it was known who caused the damage, no arrests or charges were ever made. However, a group of interested citizens banded together and began working to clean up Windley Cemetery and to raise funds to ensure that the resting place of many loved ones would be cared for in years to come.

The group began soliciting memberships and donations have poured in; now, a committee has formed to plan for, find financing for, and put in place 13 brick pillars with bronze plates commemorating each branch of service; and a flag pole. US Senator Jesse Helms has contributed a flag that has flown over the Capitol ; many dollars have already been raised. Carl Modlin, husband of WCGS member Betsy Modlin, has been a leader of the group providing TLC at Windley Cemetery; Gene Roberts is heading up the Flag Pole Committee. Roberts notes that the cemetery is the final resting place for veterans who've "served in every conflict this country has known: the Civil War, World Wars I and II, Korea, Viet Nam..."

So, we've provided the names and dates from the first recorded 308 gravesites at Windley, as found in the vertical files at the Washington County Library.

Members Jeanne Smith O'Neal and Louise Smith agreed to begin abstracting deeds for the benefit of out-of-town WCGS members. The series begins here.

In January, Russell Tyson presented the idea of clipping area obituaries that might provide helpful information, from both a genealogical viewpoint and for sharing sympathies with distant relatives. So, we've included deaths, "Now and Then."

Thanks to our contributor who wishes to remain anonymous, identification of post offices in the area concludes in this issue. Diligent researcher, Ed Norman, shares interesting Norman facts and Doris Sauls shares several "Tid Bits." Peggy Brown Adams contributes a childhood memory and a description of one of Plymouth's historic houses - her family home. A study of the ordinances from an earlier era in Plymouth reveals that there's really nothing new under the sun - i.e., pollution and human nature.

IMAGES OF OLD AUNT ANNE

Recollections from Childhood by Peggy Brown Adams

One day a tall stately colored lady with her long skirts and her cane came walking up the front walk. My grandmother greeted her as a long lost friend. I was about 12 years of age at the time and I was fascinated by her. She had walked for miles to see my grandmother. She stayed most of the day. I remember she would not ride back in Dad's car. She didn't trust cars very much.

My grandmother was granddaughter of Charles Latham and Old Aunt Anne was a slave of his and Ann Taylor Walker, his first wife. She was born 10 March 1830, bought from Mr. Bob Davis near Creswell. She was called Mu, but the Lathams called her Anne. She was treated good, lived in the house to look after the children. Mrs. Latham on her deathbed asked Charles to be good to Ann. But the second Mrs. Latham didn't like her because she had loved Ann Taylor Walker Latham so much. She mistreated her and one day when Charles came home, she asked him to punish her. So Charles took her to the shanty in the yard and pretended to whip her. Anne would scream as if she was hurting, so the second Mrs. Latham was satisfied.

Anne was sold later and had two masters in Edgecombe County, but later after she was freed she came back to Washington County and married David Norman, had four sons who became ministers, and three daughters. Was one of the founders of the Shiloh Church of Christ and they called her Preacher Annie. She lived at Walkers Woods between White Marsh and the Trading Post. She was truly a woman of God. She died June 9, 1942 - 111 years old!

When Anne got older she would take off walking and see people from her past. She had loved Ann Taylor Walker Latham and the daughter, Annie Olivia, so that is why she would come to my grandmother's to see her. My grandmother was Annie Ben Owens Dupree, daughter of Annie Olivia Latham and Benjamin F. Owens.

WARD - DUPREE - BROWN HOUSE

By Peggy Brown Adams

This house is on Lot # 133 of the Original lots of Plymouth. There have been houses on this lot as far back as 1838. Land for this house was deeded to Aileen Latham by her brother Clarence and his wife Mary in 1896 prior to her marriage to Hallett S. Ward. Both were grandchildren of the well-known Charles Latham and his first wife, Ann Taylor Walker. Their father, Edgar Latham, who fought for the Confederacy, wounded and imprisoned, bought the house and lot in 1875.

The house later burned. Aileen built their house but later moved to Washington, and she died and Hallett married Dora Bonner and had a son, the now-retired Judge Hallett S. Ward, Jr. Hallett senior was once mayor of Plymouth and a member of the House of Representatives in 1920.

The house and lot was sold to Aileen's cousin, Annie Ben Owens Dupree, in 1904. The house was in the style of that day: two stories, with eight rooms, two halls, eight fireplaces. There were two parlors, a dining room and five bedrooms. There was gingerbread trim on the exterior. The porch had beaded ceiling, tongue and groove flooring, which it still has today.

The underneath construction was pegged and the main floors of heart pine. The hall has tall columns. One parlor and dining room have Greek Revival mantels with inlaid beveled mirrors. Two baths were added later. The kitchen in 1904 was in the yard next to where the (Washington County) courthouse parking lot is today, where you may still see part of the handmade brick foundation. There are remnants of another brick foundation in the backyard. Remodeling was done around 1920. The kitchen was added and the style of the house changed.

The story goes that there were soldiers buried under where they added the kitchen and the children played under the house and brought out the bones which were later reburied.

The Dupree family raised three children: Benjamin Owens Dupree, Allen R. Dupree, Jr., and Elizabeth who married Parson W. Brown in 1921. Annie Ben was the daughter of Annie Olivia Latham and Benjamin F. Owens of Columbia, NC. a. R. Dupree was the son of Louis Bird Dupree and Mary Shirley of Pitt County and was the Railway mail clerk on the ACL Railroad and a parttime lawyer.

The last owners were Elizabeth and Parson W. Brown. Elizabeth now resides at Plumlee Nursing Center; Parson died in 1973 after serving the Town of Plymouth as police chief for more than 40 years. They have two children: Charles D. Brown, Silver Springs, MD., and Peggy Brown Adams of Plymouth.

The house stands today - empty and waiting to be restored.

GEORGE NOT OUR FIRST PRESIDENT?

A 1991 Phillip Morris Magazine article (Winter 1991 - pg 43) claims George not only didn't chop down the proverbial cherry tree but "George Washington was not the first president of the United States. For 14 years before the Constitution was ratified and Washington took office in 1789, the 13 states were governed by The Articles of Confederation, which provided for a "President in Congress Assembled" to be elected annually. Eight presidents served as the chief executive of the congress before Washington. The first president was John Hanson, a delegate from Maryland, who was elected in 1781." Among other interesting information about the Father of Our Country, the article cites his refusal to wear a wig. "His hair was quite healthy and attractive. He powdered it chalk white every day so that it looked like it was a wig..." At his death, Martha Washington was given a lock of his hair as a final keepsake.

WASHINGTON COUNTY LADY CELEBRATED 100TH BIRTHDAY

Mamie Smith, resident of Plumlee Nursing Center, Plymouth, observed her 100th birthday with a celebration hosted by staff and family the week of 2 Feb 1994. Her daughter, Mozella Collins and four living grandchildren took part in the celebration. Mrs. Smith had one child, five grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren. LOCALE AND DRAMATIS PERSONAE OF NORMAN AND WIFE
VS. GALE AND WIFE

By: Edwin Norman

In February 1704, Christopher Gale was a Justice of the General Court. In early April, he would be appointed Attorney General of the Colony, the two positions to be served concurrently. He would later serve many years as chief Justice of North Carolina.

Sarah Laker Harvey Gale, widow of Deputy Governor Thomas Harvey, had married Gale in 1702. By his wife, dated 1696, probated 1699, Thomas had left to Sarah his Harvey's Neck home plantation "during the terme of her naturall life." Sarah was a daughter of the late Benjamin Laker, deputy to one of the Lords Proprietors and therefore, a member of the Governor's Council.

Westward, up Albemarle Sound's north shore from Sarah's life estate, was the land of Cornelius Leary (Leery) at whose house the alleged "defamation" was uttered. West of Leary's lay a 100-acre tract, formerly Josias Fendals, now owned by Samuel Swann, son of the affluent senior Samuel. The next ownership, with "100 poles" (1650 feet) of Sound frontage, was the home plantation of Henry Norman, purchased by him in 1685 from William and Margaret Titterton.

Henry, a prosperous cooper, had witnessed the will of Thomas Harvey, and his oath was among those proving the will at probate. His first wife, Mary, had died, apparently childless, in 1691. His present wife, Anne, had borne him a daughter and a son during the past three years. (The son, Henry, would establish the family name on the South Shore after the death of his parents.) Henry seems to have always kept two indentured servants and at least one negro slave and/or an Indian "servant."

Anne, nee Walker, had been brought to the colony as an indentured servant. In a disposition dated 1697, she stated that upon the death of her first master she "was seized upon by Governor Seth Sothel, and by him sold unto Mr. William Wilkison." While servant to Wilkison, Anne was delivered of a bastard child, for which offence her term of indenture was extended one year. We find no record of the survival or fate of the child.

Upon expiration of her servitude, Anne married Stephen Handock, a Quaker widower with children and a decidedly un-Quakerish work ethic. They lived on the Yeopim River, on land not Stephen's own, in a house below the accepted standards of time and place. Hancock died in 1692, leaving Anne childless, and we suspect, penniless. The date of her marriage to Henry Norman continues to elude us, but was before 1694.

John Davenport of Perq Pre'ct, Planter --- for the "Yearly rent of one ear of Indian corn payable at the feast of pentecost, have sold to Richard Davenport, my father, all that plan(tation) whereon said Richard now lives," with the island called "Batts Grave" 317 ac.

Perquimans Book A, No. 209
July 13, 1703

In the above, "317" is the total acreage. Batts Grave, the island at the mouth of the Yeopim River, was understood to consist of 27 acres. It has long since eroded away. Richard Davenport had, on July 3, 1703, deeded this property to John, so this deed is merely conferring upon Richard a lifetime right in the home tract. John Davenport owned land on the South Shore by 1719.

WHERE WERE THEY?

[Second and final part of an article taken from Microfilm Series 1126, Reel 434, entitled Postal Site Reports. National Archives, Washington, D.C. Please note that there may have been multiple site reports for a given location, but only the report of earliest date was selected for inclusion in this article. Also, note that many of the figures given, as in mileage, were questionable, but obviously applicants wanted to present the strongest possible appearance of need.]

LEES MILLS

The proposed office will be called "Lees Mills", and is located in the township of Lees Mills in the County of Washington, State of N.C. It will be on or near route No. 5244, being the route from Plymouth, N.C. to Columbia, N. C. on which the mail is now carried three times per week. The contractor's name is Wm. R. Mizell. It will be directly on regular route, but not the one now used by the Contractor. The site is three miles South of the present route, and will increase the travel of mail about one mile, but on a better road. The mail will leave the present route at Plymouth to supply the proposed office. The route will be intersected again 12 miles from Plymouth. The nearest office to the proposed one on the same route is Plymouth, approximately 8 1/2 miles in a westerly direction. The most prominent river near it is Roanoke River. The name of the nearest creek is Kendrick Creek. "Trying to locate parents of my great great grandfather, Richard Gregory FRASIER born 1816, Washington Co., NC; in approximately 1842, he moved to Chatham County with Zillian FRASIER, born 1788, died 1850, and supposedly left two brothers in Washington Co. I would appreciate any formation pertaining to the FRASIERS of Washington/Tyrrell Counties.

Need lyrics to "Lorena" - controversial soldiers' (CSA) of Civil War era.

Any info on Warren NORMAN, b. ca 1848, son of Ashbury and Rachel M. M.

Caroline Who? Known in Wash Co. as late as 1892.

Where was/is MARKED (also BARKED) POPLAR SWAMP? Definitely west of Scuppernong River.

"...still trying to find definite proof of parentage of Richard CHAPMAN, who was living in Tyrrell Co. in 1734 (at least that was the first deed listed in Tyrrell Co). He probably was there earlier. His father was also Richard CHAPMAN (of Norfolk Co., VA, I believe). Chapmans had a shipyard at the mouth of the Scuppernong River. Richard CHAPMAN, who came to Illinois had been a sailor, along with his brother, Jesse. The land where the shipyard was was sold to Capt. Isaac DAVENPORT, witness of Richard's will and father of Celia DAVENPORT who married the Richard who came to Illinois.

I'm interested in the names CHAPMAN, DAVENPORT, CASWELL, SPRUILL, SWAIN, ALEXANDER, PHELPS - just about every old name in your area is somehow connected to my family. I'm sure that is true of most of your members who still live in that vicinity.

I have a lot of Davenport deeds and information, but am still looking for proof that my Capt. Isaac DAVENPORT was the son of Joseph and brother of Stephen DAVENPORT. I have a huge chart of the early Davenports which I tried to put together and would like to correspond with anyone with Davenport interest.

Have complete info on my CASWELL line. Joseph CHAPMAN married Jemima CASWELL, daughter of Matthew CASWELL. Have book on the Caswells.

I've traced my Spruills back to Godfrey SPRUILL and the Swains to Stephen SWAIN 1666-1713. Have book by Robert H SWAIN "Swains of Nantucket."

Will be glad to exchange any information and to hear from any distant cousins who are working on my lines."
(She begins her letter: "I particularly enjoy receiving your publication since my family names are scattered through it. I feel as though I'm getting news from home, even though our direct line left there about 1813.")

I have recently found out that John Francis SIVELS (b. ca 1835 - Martin Co., NC) ...from family members that Harriet ALLEN was a fullblooded Cherokee. I remember reading one time that a James ALLEN purchased two tracts of land from the U. S. Government, previously owned and occupied by the Cherokee Nation. My assumption is James ALLEN may have married a Cherokee and from this union, Harriet was born?

According to the 1850 Tyrrell Co., NC Census, John Francis CIVILS was a sailor (pg. 43, 1850 Tyrrell Co., NC Census, Kay M. Sheppard, Sarah M. Hutcheson.)

408 CIVILS	Priscilla	f	48	W			NC	CRW
	John	m	23	W	SLR	100	NC	CRW
	James	m	13	W			NC
	Nancy	f	25	W			NC
	William	m	5	W			NC

Later during the 1860 Wash. Co., NC Census John Francis CIVILLS was not present but now Harriet is present so it looks like John Francis Civills married Harriet ALLEN sometime between 1850 and 1860 censuses (pg. 83, 1860 Wash. Co. Census; WCGS)

700	Harriet CIVILLS	25f	do	500	300
	Priscilla CIVILLS	60f			15
	William	15m	Waterman
	Ann J	9f

No doubt Priscilla is John Francis Sivels' mother and Ann J Civills was my great-grandmother Johnnie Annie Sivels, (b. 3 Oct 1859, Martin Co., NC).

Finally, is there any information and/or direction your society can provide that would help me verify my Cherokee ancestors?

For the benefit of citizens living above Fourth street we would ask that our town authorities give some attention to the side walk at the corner of Washington and Fourth streets. Either have the bank removed, steps made or a ladder put up so that they can reach the side walk from the street without quite so much trouble. This is a bad place, particularly in wet weather, one can hardly descend the steep hill in a respectable manner, unless rough shod. (RB 7 Mar 1890)
